

Allāh is the Healer & the Granter of Cure

Abū 'Iyāḍ Amjad Rafīq (حفظه الله)

- Textual proof for the Name of Allāh, Ash-Shāfi.
- Some means of cure mentioned in the Qur'ān and Sunnah.
- The Qudrah and Hikmah of Allāh (سبحانه وتعالى).
- Referring to Allāh as Aṭ-Ṭabīb.
- The reason for being informed of the stories of the Prophets.
- The story of Prophet Ayyūb (عليه السلام).
- The state of Ayyūb before he was trialed.
- The two parts of Ayyūb's body that were not diseased.
- His people's treatment of him and his wife.
- A shining example of loyalty from the wife of Ayyūb.
- The point at which Ayyūb made dū'ā' and Allāh's response to it.
- The restoration of Ayyūb's health, wealth and family.
- The duration of Ayyūb's trial.
- The patience of Ayyūb in expecting reward from Allāh and never complaining.
- Those put to trial the most.
- Strengthening the hearts of those who fall ill with the story of Ayyūb.
- The dū'ā' said at the time of calamity and the outcome for doing so.
- The great right of the husband over his wife.
- The outcome of having patience and fearing Allāh.
- The difference between the believer and the disbeliever regarding their outlook on life.